- i When you directly trust a signer's certificate that is not issued by a root certificate authority, you should contact the signer to verify the certificate. Once you are confident that the signer is who he/she reports to be, then verify if the certificate is from the signer. For example, you can confirm the certificate's MD5 digest with the signer. (Use the Certificate Viewer to view the MD5 digest, and to import and directly trust the certificate. )
