FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

For the reporting period ended March 31, 2026

Allowance for diminution in value of trading securities is made for each type of securities traded on the market where market price is lower than original cost. For listed trading securities or those traded on the UPCOM market, fair value is determined as the closing price at the end of the accounting period. Where there is no transaction on the stock exchange or the UPCOM market at the end of the accounting period, the fair value of securities is the closing price of the trading session immediately preceding the end of the accounting period.

Any increase or decrease in the allowance for diminution in value of trading securities required at the end of the accounting period is recognized in financial expenses.

Held-to-maturity investments

An investment is classified as held to maturity when the Company has the intention and ability to hold it to maturity. Held-to-maturity investments include term bank deposits (including treasury bills and promissory notes), bonds, redeemable preference shares which the issuer is required to repurchase at a specified future date, loans held to maturity for the purpose of earning periodic interest, and other held-to-maturity investments.

Held-to-maturity investments are initially recognized at original cost, including purchase price and costs related to the acquisition transaction. After initial recognition, these investments are carried at recoverable amount. Interest income arising from held-to-maturity investments after the acquisition date is recognized in the Income Statement on the accrual basis. Interest receivable accrued before the Company obtains ownership is deducted from original cost at the acquisition date.

Associate

An associate is an enterprise over which the Company has significant influence, but not control, over financial and operating policies. Significant influence is the power to participate in financial and operating policy decisions of the investee but is not control over those policies.

Investments in associates are initially recognized at original cost, including purchase price or contributed capital plus costs directly attributable to the investment. Where the investment is made by non-monetary assets, the cost of the investment is recognized at the fair value of such non-monetary assets at the transaction date.

Investments in equity instruments of other entities

Investments in equity instruments of other entities include investments in equity instruments over which the Company has neither control, joint control nor significant influence over the investee.

Investments in equity instruments of other entities are initially recognized at original cost, including purchase price or contributed capital plus costs directly attributable to the investment activity. Dividends and profits relating to periods prior to the acquisition date are deducted from the carrying value of the investment.

4. Receivables

Receivables are presented at carrying value less provision for doubtful receivables.

The classification of receivables into trade receivables and other receivables is made according to the following principles:

- Trade receivables reflect receivables of a commercial nature arising from purchase and sale transactions, including receivables from export sales entrusted to other entities.
- Other receivables reflect receivables of a non-commercial nature, not related to purchase and sale transactions.

FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

Provision for doubtful receivables is made for each doubtful debt based on the overdue age of the debt or the estimated level of loss that may occur, specifically as follows:

- For overdue receivables:
 - 30% of value for receivables overdue from 6 months to less than 1 year.
 - 50% of value for receivables overdue from 1 year to less than 2 years.
 - 70% of value for receivables overdue from 2 years to less than 3 years.
 - 100% of value for receivables overdue for 3 years or more.
- For receivables not yet overdue but likely to be uncollectible: based on the estimated level of loss for making provision.

5. Principles of inventory recognition

Inventories are recognized at the lower of original cost and net realizable value. Original cost of inventories is determined as follows:

- Raw materials and merchandise: including purchase costs and other directly attributable costs incurred to bring the inventories to their present location and condition.

Net realizable value is the estimated selling price of inventories in the normal production and business cycle less the estimated costs of completion and the estimated costs necessary to make the sale.

Original cost of inventories is determined using the weighted average method and accounted for under the perpetual inventory method.

Allowance for inventory impairment is made at the end of the year when net realizable value of inventories declines below original cost.

6. Principles of recognition and depreciation of fixed assets and investment property

a) Principles of recognition and depreciation of tangible fixed assets

Tangible fixed assets are stated at original cost less accumulated depreciation. Original cost of tangible fixed assets comprises all costs incurred by the Company to acquire the tangible fixed assets up to the time the assets are ready for use. Expenditures incurred after initial recognition are only added to the original cost of tangible fixed assets if such expenditures are expected to generate future economic benefits from the use of those assets. Costs that do not meet the above condition are recognized as expenses immediately.

When tangible fixed assets are sold or liquidated, their original cost and accumulated depreciation are written off, and any resulting gains or losses on disposal are recognized as income or expenses in the year.

Tangible fixed assets are depreciated using the straight-line method over their estimated useful lives. The depreciation period of each category of tangible fixed assets is as follows:

Category of fixed assets	Number of years
Means of transport and transmission	04 - 05
Office equipment and tools	03 - 05

b) Construction in progress costs

Construction in progress costs reflect costs directly attributable (including capitalized borrowing costs, if any) to assets under construction, machinery and equipment under installation, as well as costs related to fixed assets under repair. These assets are recognized at original cost and are not depreciated.

c) Principles of recognition and depreciation of investment property

Investment property represents land use rights and is amortized using the straight-line method over the land lease term as prescribed. The amortization period of investment property is 40 years.

d) Intangible fixed assets

Intangible fixed assets comprise computer software.

7. Accounting principles for prepaid expenses

Tools and supplies

Tools and supplies already put into use are allocated to expenses using the straight-line method over a period not exceeding 3 years.

8. Accounting principles for payables and accrued expenses

Payables and accrued expenses are recognized for amounts payable in the future relating to goods and services received. Accrued expenses are recognized based on reasonable estimates of the amounts payable.

The classification of payables into trade payables, accrued expenses and other payables is made in accordance with the following principles:

- Trade payables reflect payables of a commercial nature arising from transactions for the purchase of goods, services and assets from sellers that are independent entities from the Company, including payables arising from imports through entrusted import agents.
- Accrued expenses reflect liabilities for goods and services received from sellers or provided to buyers but not yet paid due to the absence of invoices or insufficient accounting documents and records, and liabilities to employees for annual leave pay and accrued production and business expenses.

Other payables reflect payables that are non-commercial in nature and are not related to transactions for the purchase, sale or supply of goods and services...

9. Principles for recognition of equity

Equity

Owner's contributed capital is recognized based on the actual amount contributed by shareholders.

Share premium

Share premium is recognized as the difference between the issuance price and the par value of shares upon initial issuance, additional issuance, or the difference between the reissuance price and the carrying value of treasury shares. Direct costs relating to additional share issuance and reissuance of treasury shares are deducted from share premium.

Appropriation of funds

Funds appropriated during the year are based on the Resolution of the General Meeting of Shareholders and used in accordance with the Company's Charter.

Treasury shares

FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

When repurchasing shares issued by the Company, the amount paid, including transaction-related costs, is recognized as treasury shares and presented as a deduction from equity. Upon reissuance, the difference between the reissuance price and the carrying value of treasury shares is recognized under the caption "Share premium".

Funds are appropriated and used in accordance with the Company's Charter

Undistributed earnings

Undistributed earnings reflect the business results (profit or loss) after corporate income tax and the appropriation of profits or treatment of losses of the enterprise.

Dividends

Dividends are recognized as liabilities when declared.

10. Principles and methods for revenue recognition

Revenue from sale of goods and finished products

Revenue from sale of goods and finished products is recognized when all of the following conditions are simultaneously satisfied:

- The enterprise has transferred most of the risks and rewards associated with ownership of the products or goods to the buyer.
- The enterprise no longer retains the right to manage the goods as the owner of the goods or the right to control the goods.
- Revenue is determined with relative certainty. Where the contract stipulates that the buyer has the right to return the purchased products or goods subject to specific conditions, revenue is recognized only when such specific conditions no longer exist and the buyer no longer has the right to return the products or goods, except where the customer has the right to return the goods in exchange for other goods or services.
- The enterprise has obtained or will obtain economic benefits from the sale transaction.
- The costs related to the sale transaction can be determined.

Revenue from rendering of services

Revenue from a service rendering transaction is recognized when the outcome of such transaction can be determined reliably. Where services are rendered over many periods, revenue recognized in the year is based on the portion of work completed as at the end of the accounting period. The outcome of a service rendering transaction is determined when all of the following conditions are satisfied:

- Revenue is determined with relative certainty. Where the contract stipulates that the buyer has the right to return the purchased service subject to specific conditions, revenue is recognized only when such specific conditions no longer exist and the buyer no longer has the right to return the service rendered.
 - It is probable that economic benefits will flow from the service rendering transaction.
 - The portion of work completed as at the end of the fiscal year can be determined.
- The costs incurred for the transaction and the costs to complete such service rendering transaction can be determined.

FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

Interest

Interest is recognized on the accrual basis, determined based on deposit account balances and the actual interest rate applicable to each period.

11. Accounting principles for cost of goods sold

Cost of goods sold incurred during the year is recognized consistently with revenue generated during the year and in compliance with the prudence principle.

For direct material costs consumed in excess of the normal level, labor costs and fixed manufacturing overheads not allocated to the value of finished goods inventories, the accountant must recognize them immediately in cost of goods sold (after deducting compensation, if any), even if the products or goods have not yet been determined as sold.

Allowance for inventory impairment is included in cost of goods sold based on the quantity of inventories and the difference where net realizable value is lower than original cost of inventories. In determining the quantity of impaired inventories for which provision is required, the accountant must exclude the quantity of inventories for which sales contracts have been signed (where net realizable value is not lower than carrying value) but which have not yet been delivered to customers, if there is convincing evidence that customers will not cancel performance of the contracts

12. Accounting principles for financial expenses

Financial expenses reflect expenses arising from financial activities, including expenses or losses relating to financial investment activities, lending and borrowing costs, capital contributions to joint ventures and associates, losses on disposal of short-term securities, securities selling transaction costs; allowance for diminution in value of trading securities, allowance for losses on investments in other entities, losses arising from foreign currency sales, foreign exchange losses, etc.

13. Accounting principles for administrative expenses

Administrative expenses reflect general management expenses of the enterprise, including salaries of management personnel (salaries, wages, allowances, etc.); social insurance, health insurance, trade union fees and unemployment insurance of management personnel; office materials, labor tools, depreciation of fixed assets used for management purposes; land lease rental, business license tax; provision for doubtful receivables; outsourced services (electricity, water, telephone, fax, asset insurance, fire insurance, etc.); and other cash expenses (guest reception, customer conferences, etc.).

14. Principles and methods for recognition of current corporate income tax expense and deferred corporate income tax expense

Corporate income tax expense represents current income tax, calculated based on taxable income. Taxable income differs from accounting profit due to adjustments for temporary differences between tax and accounting, non-deductible expenses, as well as adjustments to non-taxable income and loss carryforwards.

The Company is obligated to pay corporate income tax at the tax rate of 20%.

15. Financial assets

Classification of financial assets

The Company classifies financial assets into the following categories: financial assets at fair value through profit or loss, held-to-maturity investments, loans and receivables, and available-for-sale financial assets. The classification of these financial assets depends on the nature and purpose of the financial assets and is determined at the time of initial recognition.

FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

Financial assets at fair value through profit or loss

Financial assets are classified as at fair value through profit or loss if they are held for trading or are designated as at fair value through profit or loss upon initial recognition.

Held-to-maturity investments

Held-to-maturity investments are non-derivative financial assets with fixed or determinable payments and fixed maturity that the Company has the intention and ability to hold to maturity.

Loans and receivables

Loans and receivables are non-derivative financial assets with fixed or determinable payments that are not quoted in the market.

Available-for-sale financial assets

Available-for-sale financial assets are non-derivative financial assets that are designated as available for sale or are not classified as financial assets at fair value through profit or loss, held-to-maturity investments, or loans and receivables.

Initial carrying value of financial assets

Financial assets are recognized on the purchase date and derecognized on the sale date. At initial recognition, financial assets are determined at purchase price/issuance costs plus other directly attributable costs incurred in connection with the acquisition or issuance of such financial assets.

16. Financial liabilities

Financial instruments are classified as financial liabilities or equity instruments at initial recognition in accordance with the substance and definitions of financial liabilities and equity instruments.

Financial liabilities

The Company classifies financial liabilities into the following categories: financial liabilities at fair value through profit or loss and financial liabilities measured at amortized cost. The classification of financial liabilities depends on the nature and purpose of the financial liabilities and is determined at the time of initial recognition.

Financial liabilities at fair value through profit or loss

Financial liabilities are classified as at fair value through profit or loss if they are held for trading or are designated as at fair value through profit or loss upon initial recognition.

Financial liabilities are classified as held for trading if:

- They are issued or incurred principally for the purpose of repurchasing them in the near term;
- The Company holds them for the purpose of short-term profit taking;
- They are derivative financial instruments, except for derivative financial instruments that are designated as financial guarantee contracts or effective hedging instruments.

Financial liabilities measured at amortized cost

Financial liabilities measured at amortized cost are determined by taking the initial carrying amount of the financial liabilities, less principal repayments, plus or minus the cumulative amortization using the effective interest method of any difference between the initial carrying amount and the maturity amount, less reductions (either directly or through the use of an allowance account) for impairment or non-recoverability.

The effective interest method is a method of calculating the amortized cost of a financial liability or a group of financial liabilities and allocating interest income or interest expense over the relevant year. The effective interest rate is the rate that exactly discounts estimated future cash payments or receipts through the expected life of the financial instrument or, where appropriate, a shorter period, to the current net carrying amount of the financial liability.

Initial carrying value of financial liabilities

At initial recognition, financial liabilities are determined at issuance price plus costs directly attributable to the issuance of such financial liabilities.

Equity instruments

An equity instrument is a contract that evidences a residual interest in the assets of the Company after deducting all of its liabilities.

17. Related parties

Parties are considered to be related if one party has the ability to control or exercise significant influence over the other party in making financial and operating policy decisions. Parties are also considered related if they are under common control or common significant influence.

In considering the relationship of related parties, the substance of the relationship is given greater weight than its legal form.

Transactions with related parties during the year are presented in Note VII.1.
